

Terms of participation

- Participation is at the participant's own risk. The event organizers are not liable for any claims, damages, or legal actions resulting from injuries sustained by participants.
- The liability of the university, as well as that of participants among themselves, is excluded for all cases of damage except in cases of intentional harm.
- Participants must identify themselves to the instructors or representatives of the university upon request under this agreement.
- Participants are obligated to strictly comply with the instructions of the respective course instructors and to use the equipment and facilities provided for the course through university sports with due care.
- Participants acknowledge that violations may result in immediate exclusion from participation.
- It is strongly recommended to take out appropriate insurance coverage for accident and liability risks at an adequate level.
